The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Owens of 202 G street was the scene of a brilliant gathering Wednesday evening, when their daughters, the Misses Mary and Catherine Owens, entertained a party of fifty young people. The grounds and porches were strung with colored lights, while the interior of the home, with its many lights and charming gowns worn by the guests, presented a pretty picture. The parlors and halls were benutifully decorated with masses of goldenglow and sunflowers. Vases and jardiniers filled with pink and white asters were placed in every available nook and corner in the library and dining room. A number of niano selections were given by the Misses Elva Bond, Edith McCallum and Margaret Cahoon, while Lineer Hodgert charmed his hearers with several cornet solos, accompanied by Miss Elva Bond on the piano. Later a number of games of 500 were played, the fortunate prize winners being Mrs. J. W. Geiger, Mrs. Thomas Marnane. The fortune telling booth was presided over by Mrs. Charles Shields. As the guests entered the grounds and their gaze rested on the cutrancing scene three rabs and a tiger were given for Mr. Knowlton. Wraps were then deposited in the house and the piles of fragrant fruit and melons attacked with gusto. A lively time followed in which Mr. Knowlton, his mother and sisters were busily engaged in replenishing the fast emptied trenches.

After all had feasted to their heart's content, games were started, and a hilarious time was had for an hour or more, winding up with a Virginia reel and serpentine march among the shrub-

Friday afternoon, when it will be inaugural day. A feature of the programme was to have been greetings to the club from its founder, Mrs. Jonathan C. Royle, but Mrs. Royle is visiting in New York and will not return home until next month. The president, Mrs. W. R. Hutchinson, will deliver her annual address in which she will outline the work of the club for the year, after which reports will be heard from the general federation meeting. An informal reception will follow the business meeting, and tea will be served.

For the Halloran-Sowles wedding, which promises to be one of the most elaborate which has taken place in Salt Lake for some time, a very elaborate musical programme has been planned. Miss Nora Gleason, who has charge of the programme, will have two harps, first and second violin and cello, with the organ. The bridal chorus from Lohengrin will be sung by twelve members of the Cathedral choir.

Mrs. M. C. Phillips will entertain Monday afternoon at her home for the Grandmothers' Lotto club.

RUSH FOR NEW HATS

Mrs. Stephenson, Leading Milliner, Says Never Before Such Rush.

Never Before Such Rush.

When seen yesterday, Mrs. Clara Stephenson, the popular and well known milliner at 212 South Main street, was the center of a busy group of well-dressed women, all intent on selecting new fall hats from the exceptionally fine lot of models brought from the east by Mrs. Stephenson last week. Mrs. Stephenson says never before in her experience has there been such a demand for good hats. She assigns the reason for this rush to the unusually attractive models being shown this year. "It is a fact," she says, "that even before I left New York, nearly two weeks ago, they were wearing velvet and satin hats with lingerie gowns. I have never before seen such delightful styles. They were so pretty that I bought and bought, until now I have right here in my own little shop anything that is seen in New York. I just couldn't help buying—particularly the imported models. They're perfect dreams."

Mrs. Stephenson is unquestionably the millinery authority of Salt Lake.
